jazmaonline.boards.net/thread/3009/new-bio

Let me tell you about the spooky island of Coron. You are probably wondering how I obtained all of this information. Simple, I am part Filipino, and I have a dozen Filipino cousins on Facebook that I communicate with. My mother Rosemarie is a Causing. The Causing(s) originate from Iloilo. I am also related to other Filipino families like the Tanzo(s); Guyo(s); Soyo(s), etc. One of my most cherished cousins is Jocelyn Causing, a world traveler and entrepreneur. My uncle Jose Causing is a former Merchant Marine, and he is the first one that told me about his visit to the Island of Coron. You are probably wondering if I have ever been there. My answer is: "No". But, maybe one day, who knows? Thankfully, I have many cousins I can consult about the haunting activities and high strangeness at the Island of Coron. Sources like from family member Alex G. Paman who has wrote the book: Filipino Ghost Stories, as seen here: www.amazon.com/Filipino-Ghost-Stories-Spine-Tingling-Supernatural/dp/0804841594

WWII GHOSTS

Now let's get into the nitty gritty stories about the Island of Coron. The locals says that this island has about 3 portals in which you can enter and find yourself in another dimension. Strange creatures come out of the portal, and we will get into that later. Let's talk about the ghostly activities of the Island. Legend has it that Coron Island is haunted by the spirits of those who perished during the World War II battles that took place there. The echoes of the past can still be felt as visitors report hearing eerie sounds of battle and encountering ghostly apparitions of soldiers. Some locals have reported seeing phantom artillery shells zoom through the sky. They now have a tour called the Coron Island Super Ultimate Tour. One of my cousins went on this tour and absolutely loved it. Very informative and a lot of areas to take a spectacular photo. The list of destinations for this tour are Barracuda Lake, Kayangan Lake, Twin Lagoon, Twin Peaks Coral Garden, Beach 91, Balinsasayaw Reef, and CYC Beach. All but Balinsasayaw and CYC Beach are located on the coast of Coron Island.

SLOP OR LABAY

If you are a scuba diver, you may want to check out the WWII Shipwrecks. You will find the remains of Japanese warships, sunk during World War II. This area is known as Skeleton Bay. Divers have said that these wrecks carry a lot of negative energy that sends shivers down your spine. There are many secret caves on the Island. Some of the caves have ancient carvings. Tour guides will tell you there are many secrets in these caves. There are depths of the caves that have never been explored. A creature called the Slop (by Americans) and Labay by Filipinos have been seen coming out of the caves. This creature has yellow skin, fat belly, sharp claws, 2 feet high, one long middle fang that hangs from his or her mouth, 4 protruding horns, bright red slanted eyes. Some locals have seen this creature eating a mammal and has very sloppy manners. Locals tell tales of strange lights in the sky, possible UAP sightings around the island, possible lost treasure, and encounters with cryptids that are either benevolent or mischievous.

Some of the cryptids that have been seen by locals, besides the Slop are the following:

ALAN: A mysterious race of small, deformed half-human, half-avian creatures. The Alan have been seen usually after a UAP (Unidentified Aerial Phenomena) or USO (Unidentified Submerged Object) sighting. One local claims that they saw 3 Alan(s) working alongside a tall white skinned humanoid alien. The Alan(s) appeared to be taking orders from the tall white skinned alien.

AMOMONGO: A hairy, wild, man-sized ape with long nails that terrorizes solitary villages. Locals say that in ancient times, the Amomongo would try and steal their children from villages. There were a few times, in which they were successful. A tourist made claim that they saw a Amomongo come out of a portal at the island of Coron.

ASWANG: Shape-shifting creatures that many believe is a Skinwalker. Locals says that it can change from a blood-sucking vampire, to a man-eating weredog. They even say that it can look like an evil eyed witch, a seductive sexy witch or even a flesh eating ghoul.

LAMPONG: A one-eyed white deer that has been seen by one of the caves on the island. Some locals believe that if you encounter the Lampong, good fortune will fall upon you and your family.

MAMELEU: A giant, hairy, man-eating bat. Locals have seen 3 Mameleu fly out of a cave.

MAHOMANAY: During UFO sightings, sometimes an elf type creature with pointy ears, fair skin and long black hair are seen. Some locals say that the creatures are either handsome if they are male, or beautiful if they are female. The male Mahomanay have a reputation of abducting human females and taking them to their world. The abducted human females are never seen again. The female Mahomanay have red skin, and some locals refer them as the Tamalanhig.

MANANGILAW or MANANG HILAW: A giant, man-eating crocodile that is seen swimming in the waters near the island.

MANTAHUNGAL: A giant, man-eating bird has been seen a few times flying over the island. Some tourists believe this creature is the Thunderbird that has been seen in the United States. This cryptid has the reputation of being a man-eater, but there are no reported sightings where the creature has ever abducted a human, or eaten a human.

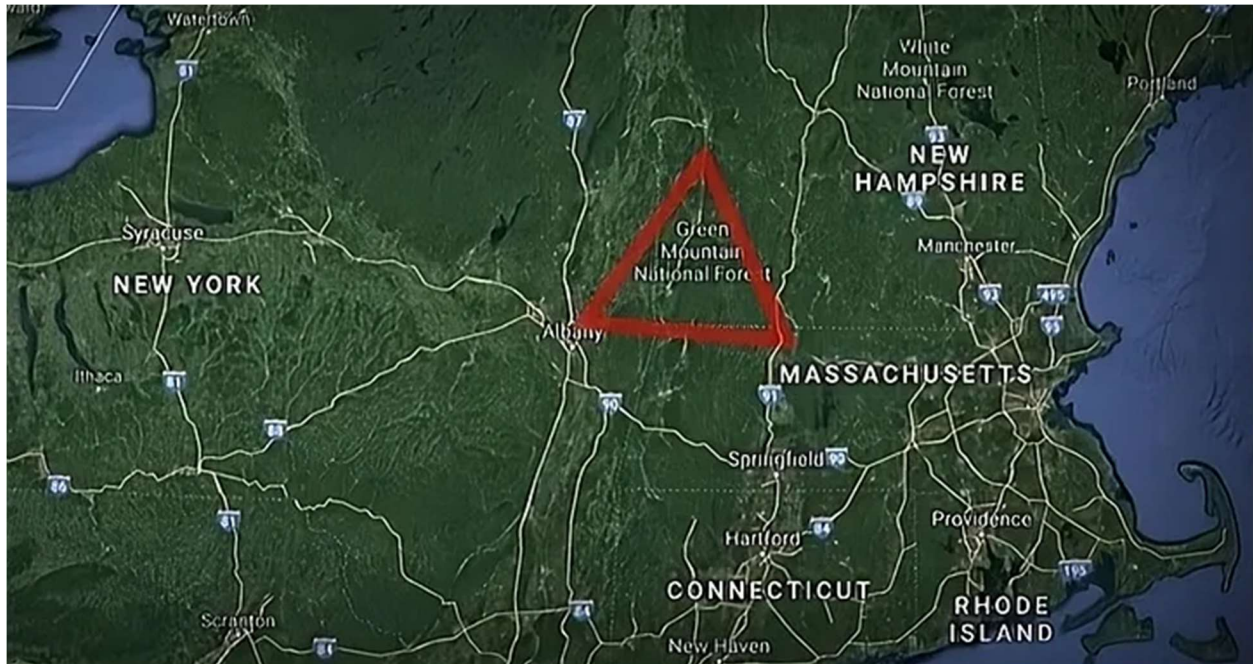

ONGLO: A giant, man-eating fish seen in the waters of the island.

TIKBALANG: This creature was sighted near the island in 1939 by 4 locals. They say the creature is a tall, bony humanoid creature with the head and hooves of a horse and disproportionately long limbs, to the point that its knees reach above its head when it squats down. The locals said it came out of a cave.

PONGO: A giant, man-eating ape seen a few times on the island. Again, we have "man-eating". There are no reports that a giant ape has been seen eating a man. It is believed that "man-eating" is a way to describe certain cryptids to scare the children.

KULARIUT: An elusive creature with big eyes, a white beard, and black fur. Seen only one time by 2 locals in 1964. Again, reported to have came out of a cave. Many locals believe that the caves hide a portal to another world.

And there you have it. The Island of Coron is a very beautiful place, and is filled with stories of the strange and bizarre. The Island of Coron is truly a place to explore for its gorgeous landscapes and out-of-this-world mystique.

Spooky Bennington Triangle: Vermont

Halo Paranormal Investigations

When Wish Fire aka Deanna Jaxine Stinson and I, went on vacation to Boston, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Vermont, we tried to stop at every known haunted location. We went to the Lizzie Borden House; Harvard (yes, Harvard is haunted), Salem, MA and the Bennington Triangle in Vermont. The Bennington Triangle is another strange place where people disappear and there is no trace of them. When we were in Boston, we did a small promo for our local news station, you can see that here: www.youtube.com/watch?v=tF4zps1\_73U

Joseph A. Citro, an American author coined the phrase Bennington Triangle after the disappearances of several people from 1945 to 1950. The disappearances are just plain weird. A lot of people compare the Bennington Triangle to Bridgewater Triangle in Southeastern Massachusetts. There have even been sightings in the Triangle of a Bigfoot creature, that they call the Bennington Monster. The Bennington Triangle is centered on Glastenbury Mountain. There are towns near the Triangle that used to be successful logging towns. Those logging towns went in decline and became ghost towns towards the latter part of the 19th century.

Let's talk about some of the disappearances at the Triangle. The first one happened on November 12, 1945. 74-year-old Middie Rivers, an experienced hunter and outdoorsman was walking around the vicinity of Long Trail Road and Vermont Route 9. Rivers was on a weekend hunting trip with four other hunters up in the mountains. Rivers and his son-in-law Joe Lauzon were walking together. They then split up at a crossroads. Rivers decided to take the shorter route back to camp. Rivers never showed up at the camp. An extensive search was conducted, but the only evidence discovered was a single rifle cartridge that was found in a stream. To this day, there has been no trace of Rivers. It would almost seem like he vanished.

Law enforcement authorities mentioned that the missing people of the Triangle have wide ranges of age and gender, it is thought that the possibility of them being victims of a serial killer is unlikely. Locals have come up with some paranormal explanations. Some of those explanations are that they have been abducted by UFOs/Aliens. They vanished in an interdimensional wormhole, they went into a time slip or they were attacked by the "Bennington Monster." The trails from the Triangle stop partially up the mountain, suggesting that no one goes up there. When you walk into the woodlands of Glastenbury Mountain you don't hear anything. You don't hear birds chirping, squirrels chattering, crickets, nothing. It's almost like the animals don't dare venture in this area. There have been several UFO/UAP sightings in and around Glastenbury Mountain and the trails inside Bennington Triangle.

Notable Missing People:

On December 1, 1946, we have Paula Welden who disappeared in the Triangle. She was 18 years old and a sophomore at Bennington College. She set out for a hike on the Long Trail and several people saw her on the trail. An elderly couple was hiking behind her. The elderly couple was no more than 100 yards behind her. According to the elderly couple, she turned a corner on the trail, and when they reached the same corner, she had disappeared. An extensive search was conducted, which included the posting of a $5,000 reward and help from the FBI, but no evidence of her was ever found. The Welden disappearance does not make any sense. How can someone just vanish like that, especially when she had an elderly couple hiking behind her, only a mere 100 yards behind? According to the FBI, this case is baffling. Then we have James E. Tedford, a veteran who went missing on December 1, 1949. Tedford got on a public bus and was still aboard at the last stop before arriving in Bennington. Somewhere between the last stop and Bennington, he vanished. Yes, he actually vanished inside a moving public bus! His belongings were still in the luggage rack and an open bus timetable was on his vacant seat. Where did Tedford go? Another case is Paul Jepson who disappeared on October 12, 1950. Jepson was a special needs child, age 8. He was left a few minutes inside a truck while his mother fed some pigs. When she came back, he was gone.

The last two cases are Frieda Langer who vanished on October 28, 1950. She was 53 years old. She was hiking with her cousin and slipped in the creek. She tells her cousin to stay at the spot and she would hurry down to their campsite and change clothes and that they can continue their hike. The distance from the camp to where she fell in the creek was a very short distance. When Frieda didn't show up, her cousin went to the campsite and learned she never arrived at the campsite. On May 12, 1951, Frieda Langer's body was found three and a half miles from the campsite in the eastern branch of the Deerfield River, an area that had been only lightly searched seven months previously. No cause of death could be determined because of the condition of her remains.

Hikers who have walked the trails at dusk, claim that they sometimes see strange orbs hovering about and strange lights in the sky. One hiker we talked with said that on one particular day when he was hiking, he was followed by a strange yellowish orb. He was able to see the orb through the trees. The orb seemed like it was under intelligent control and would dart behind the trees, like it was hiding. The hiker got on his cell phone and was directly looking at the orb. As soon as the hiker got on the phone, the orb vanished, it simply blinked out. The hiker told us that he will never do hikes in this area by himself. He doesn't want to be a "missing" hiker.

More High Strangeness at the Bennington Triangle

There have been several plane crashes that have occurred along the Long Trail between 1944 and 1973. Some of the high-profile crashes were a B-24 Liberator bomber crash in 1944, a two-engine aircraft crash in 1969, and a Cessna crash in 1973. The wreckage can still be seen near the trail. Hikers have claimed that at times the ghosts of these pilots are seen walking along the trail. The Abenaki people, who once inhabited the region, believe that the Glastonbury Mountain is cursed. The Abenaki people say the cursed mountain is haunted by an evil spirit known as the Stone Man aka the Glastonbury Giant. Legend has it that this entity brings misfortune to those who venture into his domain. The Abenaki will not set foot on the mountain. The only way that they would set foot on the mountain is to bury their dead. As mentioned before, the Bennington Triangle has been a hotspot for UFO sightings and strange lights, particularly during the 1960s and 1990s. Reports often describe glowing orbs, disc-shaped objects, and triangular craft moving silently through the sky or hovering above the treetops before vanishing suddenly. Many locals believe that these UFOs/UAPs disappear into portals. Wish Fire felt a vibrational energy at the Bennington Triangle and felt this energy could be dangerous.

One of the most notable and fascinating UFO encounters happened at the Buff Ledge Camp in 1968. According to the account, 16-year-old Michael Lapp and his 19-year-old camp counselor, Janet Cornell, witnessed a cigar-shaped object from which three smaller craft emerged. The two claimed to have experienced telepathic communication with two figures that appeared in the craft's dome, who stated they were not going to hurt the people and that they were on a mission on Earth to obtain a type of energy. The incident, which involved a beam of light and missing time, was investigated by UFO researcher Walter Webb, who spent five years attempting to unravel the truth behind the Buff Ledge Camp case.

Haunted Schofield Barracks

Halo Paranormal Investigations

My father (Paul Marceau Roberts) was in the Korean War. He was a lineman for a US Army Signal Corp. When it was close to time for his tour to end, he was sent to Schofield Barracks. Schofield Barracks was established in 1908. The barracks is located in Honolulu and is in the Wahiawa District of the Hawaiian island of O'ahu, Hawai'i. I asked my dad if Schofield Barracks is haunted. His answer: "I heard many stories". I would imagine that Schofield Barracks would be very haunted. The barracks faced the horror of the bombing of Pearl Harbor where 2,043 service men and civilians died.

Beverly Shintaku, former operations officer, U.S. Army Garrison Hawaii says: "Some people don't believe it and they won't until it happens to them." Schofield Barracks and Wheeler Army Airfield received a lot of damage during the attack on Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941. Many ghosts of the soldiers that were killed roam the bases. PFC Michael Jacque who was stationed at Schofield in 1981 says that he saw three apparitions of soldiers that were bleeding profusely. They were ducking, as if they were under attack. Jacque thinking they were real flesh and blood human beings approached them to see if they needed help. Jacque was shocked to see them vanish. Present day military personnel hear whispering voices, mumbling voices, disembodied footsteps, laughter, crying, sobbing, screaming. Numerous military personnel have made claim that they have seen ghosts, heard the sounds of ghosts and witnessed strange paranormal activity. SP4 Thomas O'Reilly with the Hawaii Air National Guard came across an apparition of a soldier laying on the ground, with his intestines streaming out of his stomach. The apparition slowly faded away into nothingness.

A very scary place to stay at is E Quad at Schofield Barracks. The story goes that a soldier staying at E Quad committed suicide. He had 13 stab wounds to his stomach. Special Note: Even though the circumstances were suspicious, it was still ruled as a suicide. There was blood splattered everywhere. To this day, this suicide victim is now a ghost, and he goes around whispering in some of the soldier's ears. He whispers: "go kill yourself." The cemetery is close by to Schofield and because of that appliances go off and on, doors will open and close on their own accord. Garrison Headquarters moved to Building 106 in 2006. After the move, everything seemed normal for a while. The soldiers heard all kinds of ghostly tales about Building 106 and they just laughed it off.

Then this happened: On one particular day, at 6:30 p.m., the sun was setting. Employee Shintaku and one other employee remained in the building. Shintaku got goosebumps as she was walking down a dark hallway to the copy machine. Shintaku heard a man's deep voice. She was unable to make out the words. Then she heard disembodied footsteps. Shintaku freaked out, grabbed her stuff and ran back to her office, where she felt safe. She later learned that people have died in Building 106. Some of the things that she witnessed in Building 106 are: lights turning on and off, computer systems secured with locks becoming unplugged, and coins dropping, seemingly out of nowhere. Cold spots and cold breezes will come out of nowhere. Shintaku at times hears whispering in her ears. DPW blueprints show unexcavated land beneath the building, confirming Shintaku's suspicion of bodies buried under the building as well.

A soldier named Andrew was killed in Building 108 on Wheeler during the attack on Oahu, Dec. 7, 1941. Many employees working in the building have reported hearing footsteps and doors opening and closing at night. Similar experiences also have occurred in Building 105. Schofield Barracks E and J quads have reported mumbling voices and strange laughter. Some soldiers feel there is a demonic presence in these quads. Other hauntings are at Fort Shafter's Building 405. Shadow people have been seen, along with darting shadows that are seen with your peripheral vision. Night Marchers (ghosts) are heard crossing the campus at night at The Big Island's Kilauea Military Camp. Legend has it that the Night Marchers are ancient Hawaiian warriors. Schofield Barracks apparently has a lot of paranormal activity, and the reports just keep on coming in. My dad must have heard a lot of stories.

Haunted Sicily

Paul Dale Roberts, HPI's Esoteric Detective / Wish Fire, Psychic Medium

Halo Paranormal Investigations

My ex-brother-in-law Mike McDaniels worked as a maritime archaeologist. As a Certified Scuba Diver, he explored the waters of the Tyrrhenian Sea, Adriatic Sea, Ionian Sea, Ligurian Sea and Mediterranean Sea, with stopovers at Egadi, Lipari, Corsica, Sardinia, Pelagie and the Panteleria Islands. Mike tells me that this was the most adventurous time in his life. He lived with my sister on Santorini Island for 5 years. Of course, I had to ask Mike about any haunted locations that he may have visited during his extensive archaeology project in and around Sicily. Mike said on one nighttime outing, they saw strange lights flying around erratically off the coast of Tunisia. The strange lights were rectangular. There were 3 objects at first flying in formation, then they darted around as they were looking for something. One of the objects dived into the ocean. There were no waves created from the submersion. The objects would flash yellow, then to blue. The sighting lasted for 5 or 7 minutes. The year 1988.

Mike also mentions that he visited the Castle of Caccamo and the Castle of Mussomeli in Sicily. Both places are very haunted. I did my own research on some of the haunted places in Sicily and here is my list:

Castle of Caccamo:

This castle is located near Palermo. The castle is haunted by the ghost of Matteo Bonello. Matteo was a Norman noble who was imprisoned, tortured and killed there. Visitors have reported Matteo's ghost. Matteo's ghost seems like he is in agony. He has no eyes. During the time he was tortured, the guards actually cut out his eyes! Visitors have heard screaming that at times seems like it's coming out from everywhere in the castle. Mike said he felt sadness while walking inside the castle. Mike says the castle is beautiful and has a very dark history. The beauty of the castle is overshadowed by the negative forces within the interior of the castle.

Castle of Carini:

This castle is famous for the tragic story of Laura Lanza, the Baroness of Carini, who was murdered by her father in 1563. Legend has it that her bloody handprint appears on the wall of the room where she was killed every year on the anniversary of her death. Alessio Lombardi, former caretaker of the castle saw the spirit of the Baroness gliding around in one of the rooms. The sighting only lasted for a few seconds. Other times Alessio would hear strange gurgling sounds, as if someone is dying.

Villa Caboto: Near Mondello beach, this villa has several ghost stories associated with it. One tale suggests it was a brothel where American soldiers killed some women and German soldiers. Another story involves a girl killed by her father after being seen with a soldier. A local named Giuseppe Conti has heard disembodied screaming and yelling coming from the villa.

Teatro Massimo:

In Palermo, this opera house is said to be haunted by the ghost of a nun whose tomb was desecrated during its construction. She is believed to appear backstage. Dante Gallo claims that she saw the ghostly nun in a mirror and the nun was standing behind her. Another time Dante went to grab her make-up kit, and a ghostly hand grabbed her right hand.

Castle of Mussomeli:

This castle is known for the tragic story of Federico and his three sisters. During some turbulent times at the castle, Federico and his 3 sisters were locked in a room for safety. They were forgotten about and when they unlocked the room, Federico and his 3 sisters were dead from starvation. To this day, Federico and his 3 sisters haunt this castle. When Mike visited this castle, he claims he saw a darting figure go from one room to another room. Mike says he may have seen a ghost, but not sure if what he saw was real, or just his active imagination.

Abbey of Thelema in Cefalù:

Used by Aleister Crowley as a temple and spiritual center from 1920-1923, this place is rumored to be haunted by dark forces. Beatrice Russo and Lucia Bruno who were on vacation went by the Abbey, and both ladies had their hair pulled. Beatrice says it was not a gentle tug, it was a hard yank. Lucia believes it was a demonic force that yanked their hair. After the yanking, both ladies ran away from the Abbey as fast as they could.

When I went with my family to London, England; Edinburgh, Scotland; Stonehenge; Bath, England and finally Cardiff, Wales, there was one more stop I had to make. I have heard stories that Craig y Nos Castle is considered one of the most haunted castles in the British Isles due to its rich and spooky history. Here are some reasons why Craig y Nos Castle is legendary:

A very popular ghost at this castle is Adelina Patti. Adelina was a famous 19th-century opera singer. Many people have seen her spirit roaming around in various rooms, or down hallways. Her spirit has also been seen by many visitors at the theater where she once performed. Valerie Walters a tourist claims that when she utilized a bathroom at the castle, Adelina Patti appeared and asked Valerie if she could hold her hairbrush. Adelina smiled and then faded away. Ann Langer and Mark Morris, tourists from Connecticut, visited the castle and learned that the castle in the early 20th century was a tuberculosis hospital. Their tour guide explained to them that many of the patients suffered in a horrific manner, before taking their last breath. Ann Langer, a psychic saw an apparition materialize. The apparition was a skinny woman lying in bed and she was coughing up blood. Her partner Mark Morris did not see the apparition, but makes claim that he heard a horrifying coughing. Many ghost hunting groups visit this castle and obtain EVPs at many parts of the castle. Ghost hunters make claim that they see apparitions, objects move, and one ghost hunter saw a chair move across the floor. Certain parts of the castle hacking and coughing is heard. Moaning and even screams are heard. Helen Cheryl Day, a paranormal investigator believes these are the patients that fell victim to tuberculosis. Jodie Bearden from Mannheim, Germany has heard the disembodied laughter of ghostly children in the Children's Ward.

Special Note: I traveled to Cardiff, Wales with my stepson Jason Randall Porter and his mother Patricia Mary Mitchell (Roberts).

Paranormal Investigators and tourists that go on the ghost tour of the castle have witnessed and documented various unexplained phenomena, such as strange noises, apparitions, and sudden drops in temperature. A tourist witnessed a mop seemingly moving on its own, which was caught on video. More sightings of Adelina Patti have taken place in the theater basement where disembodied footsteps are also heard, and people seeing moving shadows. The Wicked One (an evil spirit) is said to hide out in the Salt Cellar. This area includes the Butler's pantry and the slab room where Adelina Patti's body was embalmed. The Wicked One is known to leave scratch marks on visitors to the Salt Cellar. Wicked laughter is sometimes heard. A hideous face will sometimes appear out of nowhere. The Wicked One is the scariest entity in this castle. Many paranormal investigators believe The Wicked One is a demonic entity.

John Mellon's Room: This room is known for the tragic story of John Mellon, and visitors have reported feeling a strong presence and experiencing unexplained phenomena such as knocking on the walls, small objects moving on their own. A paranormal investigator named Lonnie says that he heard a disembodied male voice say..."I can see you". The story goes that a gentleman called "John Mellon" was believed to have hung himself in 1874 over the love of an employee at the time named Charlotte. This story originated from Paul Sandbach, a psychic medium who worked alongside a ghost hunting group from Liverpool called 'Ghosthaunted'. The John Mellon story has never been historically verified. When I visited this castle, there were some parts of the castle that felt thick with depression. In one room, everything felt gloomy and dispiriting. Not only did I feel this, but my son Jason Randall Porter felt it and his mother Patricia Mary Roberts felt it. I believe we were all feeling the suffering that tuberculosis victims were feeling inside this castle hospital.

Haunted Goshiki-Numa Lake, Japan

Paul Dale Roberts, HPI's Esoteric Detective / Wish Fire, Psychic Medium

Halo Paranormal Investigations

When I was in Tokyo, Japan, I didn't really have much time to explore the haunting activities of Tokyo. I was in the military, and I knew that I had to get up at 4am to catch my plane to South Korea the very next day. My dad (Paul Marceau Roberts), a Korean War veteran spent some time in Japan and got to see a whole lot more than I did. Questioning my dad, I discovered that he visited Goshiki-Numa Lake. My dad explains to me that Goshiki-Numa Lake is a cluster of five majestic volcanic lakes situated at the foot of Mount Bandai. My dad says the lakes are dazzling in beauty. My dad talking to some of the locals told him that the lakes are haunted by many spirits. These spirits were the victims of the erupting Mount Bandai. Mount Bandai erupted on July 15, 1888. The eruption killed over 500 people and destroyed several villages. After the devastation, hundreds of lakes were formed, along with tarns.

The eruption completely rearranged the landscape, creating the Bandai-kōgen plateau and damming local rivers. From death and destruction, beauty came afterwards. The eruption harvested mineral deposits that went to the now Five Colored Lakes. Each lake provides its own distinct color, ranging from reddish green to cobalt blue. My dad said the lakes are something out of a fairy tale novel. My dad says from Lake Hibara, you can find a spot to observe all 5 lakes. When you are at that spot, you feel like you have reached heaven.

The locals told my dad that Goshiki-Numa Lake has a dark side, and not let its beauty fool you. Locals late at night hear the screams of spirits that were once victims of the erupting Mount Bandai. The screams are the loudest during thunderstorms. It is believed that the residual energy from this tragic event plays out even more during a thunderstorm, because the residual energy gathers more energy from the charged-up molecules during a thunderstorm. Energy feeding off energy. Also, a local claims that when he heard the unearthly screaming, one of the spirits ran threw him and his whole body for a couple of seconds felt like ice.

A "Lady in Blue Swimsuit" is sometimes seen on one of the lakes. It is believed she was a drowning victim. She will walk around the beach during a full moon, and then vanish. Another legend is that at times, locals and tourists have seen "Shadow Ninjas" sitting high up in trees. They have been seen jumping from limb to limb and then vanishing. The locals believe that these Shadow Ninjas are from the Sengoku period, also known as Sengoku Jidai aka The Warring States Period. This is when the period in Japanese history, there were civil wars and social upheavals that took place almost continuously in the 15th and 16th centuries. Locals and tourists will tell you that during the day, you will most likely not feel or see anything paranormal. But, when the sun goes down, or if there is a storm, you may just see something that you don't want to see.

DOGMAN ENCOUNTER IN ELK GROVE, CA

www.reddit.com/r/ElkGrove/comments/1fep72s/has anyone seen anything weird at night on the/
REDDIT REPORT ON DOGMAN BY CHRISTIAN APPEL

The cryptid known as Dogman is very similar to a werewolf. One of the most infamous Dogman is the Michigan Dogman. The Michigan Dogman was sighted in 1887 in Wexford County, Michigan. Witnesses say the creature was 7 feet tall, had blue eyes, bi-pedal and had the torso of a man. When the Dogman howled, it sounded like a human screaming. There have not been any reports of Dogman attacking anyone. What makes the Dogman different from a werewolf is that the Dogman actually looks like a dog, usually having the face of a German Shepard or a Doberman. The werewolf will have the face of a vicious wolf. Some witnesses say all you have to do is clap, and the Dogman will run away.

SACRAMENTO SIGHTING

The first sighting of Dogman in the Sacramento area was in 1953, according to "anonymous". Anonymous says that the sighting occurred near the American River. Anonymous' mother was watching TV, when she saw at a lower pane window, the face of a dog watching her. She got really scared when the dog face was at a higher window staring down at her. This meant that she was dealing with a very tall bipedal dog-faced creature. She says that this Dogman was dark gray and had glowing red eyes. Anonymous mother later learned that their home, being close to the American River, was also close to previous Native American land, because people have found arrowheads and other Native American artifacts near their property.

ELK GROVE SIGHTING

Darion Wilcox of Seattle, WA who once lived in Elk Grove claims that in the Summer of 1962, his grandmother named Sarah saw Dogman out in the fields, which are now the Laguna Creek Wetlands. Sarah lived on a ranch that once was located by Francesca and Franklin Blvd. When Sarah sighted Dogman it was on all fours and sniffing around like a dog. Sarah was amazed at how large the dog looked in the fields. Then this creature stood up and it must have been 6'1". When the creature looked at Sarah, it gave out a blood curdling piercing scream. Sarah says that Dogman had red eyes, but when it moved its head, the red eyes turned silver in color. Sarah says this Dogman had the face of a German Shepherd. Darion also says that he had a couple of friends that claim that they have seen "ghostly dogs" on the trails. Just a sidenote, my deceased dogs Pika and T-Rex loved these trails when they were alive, I only wonder if the ghostly dogs could be my dogs from long ago. Wishful thinking.

2ND ELK GROVE SIGHTING

It was February 2024, 10:45pm at night, local Elk Grove resident Christian Appel, had his truck parked near the bike trail (by Leatherbees), that leads out to the Laguna Creek Wetlands. Christian watched people jogging or riding their bikes on the trail. As he sat in his truck and when the people were gone, he was shocked to see a large shaggy black creature walking on the trail. This creature had the face of a dog and was larger than a Mastiff. The creature was bipedal. Christian posted his encounter on Reddit and was asking the readers if they ever encountered anything like that near the Wetlands.

OUR INVESTIGATION

With three sightings, one as recent as 2024, there must truly be something strange going on at the Laguna Creek Wetlands trails. I once saw a strange hunched-back dark green bi-pedal figure in Elk Grove. From the distance from where I was observing this strange sight, I was unable to make out what I was seeing. I had to drive up closer, so I can identify this mysterious figure. I discovered I was looking at a homeless person that was covered in a blanket. The witnesses to these Dogman sightings are saying that they are actually seeing the dog faces on these creatures, so I don't think they are seeing a homeless person covered in a blanket. One of my investigators Xandean Smith and I, have been walking the trails to see if we can come across this elusive cryptid. I will keep you posted.

9/20/2024: Nice day today to do some tree limb trimming with my new power saw. As I was able to get rid of some of the smaller branches, I was struggling with the larger thick branches that have now grown on top of my roof. If I don't get these branches cleared off my roof, it could lead to problems in the future. As I was getting tired holding this saw, I was saved by the ring of my paranormal hotline cell phone. On the other end is a lady named Tanya and she is having a paranormal problem. Tanya tells me that on 6 different occasions, she has seen a pair of red eyes staring at her from the first-floor living room window, while she is watching TV. The first-floor window stands about 2 feet from the ground. Tanya thought perhaps it was an animal like a dog, cat, opossum, raccoon, etc. Tanya's husband Chet has seen the red eyes two times and also at the time, thought it was some kind of animal staring at them. Whenever they saw the red eyes, they would run to the front door and discover that there was no animal out there. Tanya and Chet just brushed it off thinking that the animal was very quick.

Tanya says that the reason she is calling me, is that the red eyes have now appeared in her living room closet and underneath her coffee table. The red eyes will appear and quickly disappear. Tanya has no explanation on why this is happening. Tanya was wondering if I could bless her home. Tanya and her husband Chet live in the town of Galt, which is about 30 minutes from Elk Grove, where I live. Wish Fire aka Deanna Jaxine Stinson and I, decided to take a break from the yard work and head over to Tanya's home.

As we arrived, Tanya had made coffee and homemade chocolate chip cookies. As I was eating my cookie and sipping my coffee, Tanya explains the appearance of the Red Eyes. Tanya says that seeing the red eyes in the house, has scared her and her husband Chet. I asked Tanya if she dabbles in the dark arts, played with a Ouija Board, tarot cards, etc. Tanya says no. I then asked Tanya if she has brought home any antiques or used items in her house. The only thing that Tanya could think of is that she and her husband were visiting relatives in New York. Chet's relatives took them on a nice excursion to Boldt Castle on Heart Island in New York. Boldt Castle was built in 1900 by multi-millionaire hotel manager George Boldt for his wife Louise. Louise died in 1904, and George had the construction stopped. George dedicated the castle to his wife Louise. Visitors to the castle hear dainty footsteps on the long corridors of the castle. Visitors believe that this is the ghost of Louise. Tanya claims that she saw a female shaped shadow move from one room to another room. When night falls, people have seen the uppermost windows light up. Legend has it that this is Louise inspecting the renovations of the castle. Tanya loved the castle and as a souvenir took a small stone from the castle.

THE INVESTIGATION:

I did an EVP sweep of the home and managed to get an EVP of what sounded like a woman whistling in the distance. Wish Fire walked around and got an impression of a mischievous animal spirit hiding in the house. Wish Fire felt that the stone from the castle has to do with the haunting. I told Tanya to mail back the stone as soon as possible. I conducted a Roman Catholic house blessing of the home and blessed the stone. My prayer to the angels is that the stone would be returned and Tanya standing next to me, apologized for taking the stone. I had Tanya place the stone outside of her home and she promised me that she would mail out the stone tomorrow. When Tanya and I, walked back into the home, we felt a sharp breeze by the back door heading out into the backyard. I only could wonder if this was "Red Eyes"? I will keep in touch with Tanya and Chet and see if "Red Eyes" is truly gone. CASE PENDING.

Haunted Greenland

In 2006, when I took a vacation to Amsterdam and Belgium, the plane that I was on flew over Greenland and Iceland. I remember looking out the window and seeing a white landscape over both islands. I wondered how people can live in such cold conditions. I heard stories about haunted places in Iceland, but couldn't remember if I ever heard about haunted places in Greenland. Greenland seemed so desolate. To my surprise, Greenland does have some haunted sites. Before I get into my list of the most haunted sites in Greenland, if you want to see my story about my visit to Amsterdam and Belgium, stop by here:

QULLISSAT

Qullissat was once a thriving coal mining town, and it was abandoned in 1972. There were many severe injuries and deaths at this mining town. In its heyday, there were 1,400 inhabitants. The coal mine was productive from 1924 to 1972. When the coal was gone, the government closed down the schools and shops. People were homeless and had to find other places in Greenland to live. The former inhabitants of Qullissat caused many problems for other towns that were forced to take these people in. Over a thousand people from Qullissat had to find new living conditions. People who have visited Qullissat will most likely experience some kind of paranormal activity. Visitors have heard disembodied voices. The sounds of screaming. One local has seen a miner crawling on the ground and yelling in pain, only to vanish. The air is thick near the mine and some people started choking, because the air was so thick. What is also interesting about Qullissat is that some locals have seen Adlets nearing the mining area. Adlets are cryptids and part of the Inuit mythology. They are described as having humanoid bodies with wolf-like legs. According to legend, the Adlet were born from a woman named Niviarsiang and a dog named Ijirqang. The Adlet are said to be cannibalistic warriors with red fur, sharp claws, and yellow eyes. Special Note: Notable inhabitants of Qullissat are: Greenland's former premier, Kuupik Kleist, and Aka Høegh, one of Greenland's most recognized and beloved artists.

SERMERMIUT:

Sermermiut is located near the Ilulissat Icefjord. This ancient settlement has a history that goes back 4,500 years. The site is known for its archaeological significance and ghostly legends. Many locals have seen the spirits of Dorset and Thule Inuit hunters walking around the land. Some of these ghostly hunters are carrying long spears. Sermermiut was first excavated in 1952 and then in 1983, where evidence of many different cultures was found. It is now part of a UNESCO World Heritage area, and you can access it via a wooden walkway. At the end of the walkway, you get to a place called Nakkaavik, which means “the place where you fall.” The name comes from a time when the elderly threw themselves off a cliff during famines. Locals have seen full body apparitions jumping off the cliffs. One local makes claim that an entity told her to leap off the cliff. Sermermiut at times can be a very scary place.

WESTERN SETTLEMENT:

This Viking settlement mysteriously vanished in the 14th century. Theories range from climate change to alien abductions to other types of supernatural causes. Logical thinking people believe that the Little Ice Age caused the Vikings to seek out new homes. There have been some reports of unusual flying blue orbs hovering over the settlement. The Western Settlement was a group of farms and communities established by Norsemen from Iceland around 985 in medieval Greenland. The demise of the Western Settlement coincides with a decrease in Summer and Winter temperatures commonly known as the Little Ice Age. In this area cryptids called Qivittoq have been seen. The Qivittoq legend speaks of people who have exiled themselves into nature and, over time, transformed into supernatural beings. Qivittoqs are believed to have the ability to turn into any animal and are considered spirits. Sialorta Brandt who lives in Greenland witnessed a Qivittog. Sialorta describes the Qivittoq having one arm that looked like an octopus tentacle. It also had a bear claw, a pig's tail, the body of a bear, a face like a dog or wolf and deer antlers. It also only had 3 toes and 4 fingers. Sialorta said that the air near the creature started glimmering. The creature walked into the glimmering airway and vanished. Sialorta believes that the creature walked through a portal.

KANGEQ

Another abandoned village is the Nuup Kangerlua fjord, Kangeq is known for its decaying wooden houses and the haunting atmosphere that surrounds it. Many ghosts have been seen walking around the old wooden houses. These places not only offer a glimpse into Greenland's past, but also provide a sense of mystery and intrigue. Greenland is known for its many ghost towns. The abandoned village of Kangeq is perched on an islet in the Nuup Kangerlua fjord. The cluster of wooden houses have paint peeling from their once colorful walls. Some of the wooden houses have caved-in roofs, opening up their interiors to the sky. Inside, cupboards hang open, empty. Then there's Bluie East Two, an abandoned American air force base, where the stripped-down metal skeletons of cars and trucks are surrounded by granite peaks. Over 10,000 rusted fuel barrels litter the landscape, locals call them 'American flowers'. It's not just these post-apocalyptic visions of modernity that mark the landscape. You'll also encounter the crumbling stone ruins of Viking houses and farmsteads, the remains of pre-Inuit settlements. And who knows what traces of ancient cultures are frozen within the permafrost. The reasons why there are so many abandoned places in Greenland are many, and complex. From colonialism to a changing climate, this is what led to the waves of settlement and abandonment on this icebound island. The ocean closes to Kangeq, you may see a cryptid called the Kajanok. This cryptid is described as a giant aquatic arachnid found in shallow bays and lakes in Greenland and the Canadian Arctic.

As you can see, there are many places in Greenland that are haunted and filled with mystery. If you are a paranormal investigator, you will be very busy investigating.

Haunted Dubingiai Castle: Lithuania

Paul Dale Roberts, HPI's Esoteric Detective

Sacramento Paranormal Investigations
Halo Paranormal Investigations

Paranormal Hotline Call received at 14:30pm (Pacific Time). Caller: Nojus Bukantas. Location: Newport Beach, CA. Nojus tells me that he went back to his homeland of Lithuania to see his friends and relatives. When he returned back to the States, he experienced misfortune. Everything seemed to be crashing down. Nojus was arguing with his wife more often. Nojus got into a terrible car accident and totaled his vehicle. His two children caught Covid. Nojus believes that when he went back to Lithuania, he picked up on a curse. Nojus tells me that he believes he brought home a demon from Lithuania. I asked Nojus, why does he feel he has a demon residing in his house? Nojus tells me that he saw a demon in his swimming pool. The demon raised up from the water and it was all black. The demon had long lean arms, thin fingers, red eyes. Nojus believes this demon is the Baubas demon. The Baubas demon haunts the land of Lithuania.

When Nojus was visiting his family, they took him to the area where Dubingiai Castle once stood. The castle is in ruins and the only thing that remains of the castle are several cellars, some of the foundation, and the church. Nojus tells me that the land where this castle once stood is very haunted. Locals have seen Kaukas (little people that resemble leprechauns) running about and hiding in the bushes. Other little people that are seen are Nykstukas (which resemble gnomes). Nojus tells me that he thinks he picked up on the curse, because he threw a glass bottle at the foundation of the castle and jokingly cursed at the little people. Nojus tells me that this castle was constructed by Vytautas, Grand Duke of Lithuania, in 1412-1413. The castle was built on this island that is now referred to as a peninsula on Lake Asveja. The purpose of the castle was to secure the capital of Vilnius from attacks from Livonia.

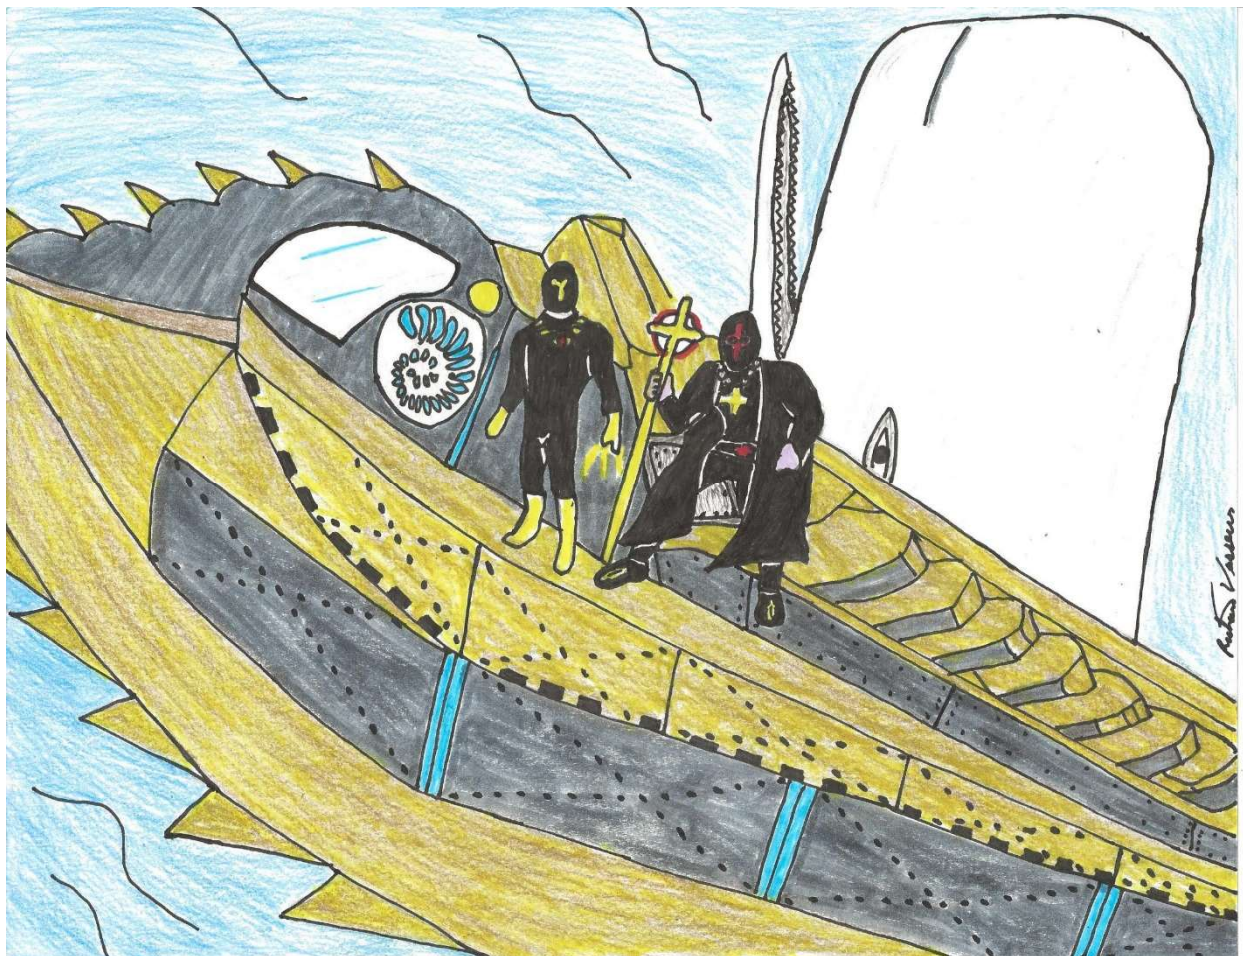

Nojus tells me that the people of Lithuania are tossing around the idea of rebuilding the castle. Nojus feels that what he did by throwing that glass bottle, he showed disrespect to the spirit world. Because of this, it brought on the curse that now bedevils Nojus and his family. When Nojus was leaving the grounds of where the castle ruins were, he caught a glimpse of a wicked looking lady in a long blue gown. The wicked looking lady disappeared into one of the cellars. Nojus feels he met up with the Witch of Dubingiai Castle. Legend has it that she worked at the castle as a housemaid and committed suicide. This reminded me when I went to the Historic Marysville City Cemetery and one of my investigators saw a wicked looking lady in a long blue gown hovering over some gravesites. It's interesting that my investigator saw this. I only wonder if this could be the same witch that is seen at Dubingiai Castle. The reason why it's a possibility is that the Russian colonists were in the Sacramento area in 1841. Perhaps some of the colonists are buried at the Marysville City Cemetery? Maybe, maybe not. I do know that some of the survivors of the Donner Party and possibly Charles E. Boles aka Black Bart are buried at this cemetery. Black Bart is supposed to be in an unmarked grave.

Locals and tourists have seen apparitions and strange moving shadows at Dubingiai Castle. Locals believe the apparitions and shadows are the spirits of the Polish-Lithuanian-Swedish Wars. The castle was ransacked by armies that were loyal to the King of Poland and the Grand Duke of Lithuania. The castle was eventually taken from Bogusław Radziwiłł. It was eventually returned to the family in the second half of the 17th century. The neglected castle and church gradually fell into ruins. The castle grounds were eventually sold to Michał Tyszkiewicz in 1808. Nojus says that perhaps if the castle is rebuilt, the negative entities that haunt the land will leave. I explained to Nojus on how to bless his home. Nojus is going to follow my instructions of getting a full submersion baptism for his whole family. Nojus is Catholic and will be consulting his priest. CASE PENDING.

The Paranormal Experiences of a Skeptic

Sacramento Paranormal Investigations
Halo Paranormal Investigations

PAUL MARCEAU ROBERTS
BORN: NOVEMBER 1, 1932
DIED: OCTOBER 1, 2024

My father who recently passed away was born and raised in Lehigh, Oklahoma. Growing up with dad, I became very familiar with his thoughts on the paranormal. He was an extreme skeptic. I was just the opposite, I was an extreme believer, because I lived in a haunted house on Effy Street in Fresno. The entities of this home centered their attention on me. It scared me to death. I was just a little boy. When we moved out of the house, everything went back to normal. When I tried to explain what happened to me in that house, my dad refused to believe me. He told me, I was just having childhood nightmares. I learned from that time on, my father was a skeptic. Here are four paranormal events that my father witnessed and believed all 4 episodes have logical explanations. My dad always sought out the "logical" answers.

I believe that is why I became a paranormal investigator. I was determined to prove to my dad, that paranormal experiences are real and that they really happen. My father didn't believe in ghosts. My dad said that this life we have now is all there is. There was no afterlife. My dad also believed that our planet Earth was the only planet in the universe with life. As he got older, he changed his tune on that idea, but did not believe we were being visited by aliens. He told me the distance was too far for any intelligent life stopping by our planet to visit. I would have long discussions with dad about portals, wormholes and even black holes, that may be ways for extraterrestrials having a way to visit us. We would talk for a couple of hours on panspermia and my dad at the end, wasn't buying it. Now that my dad is deceased, would he find a way to communicate with me? On the night that he died, I heard a cough that sounded like my dad. The cough sound was heard in my house and my dad was not in my house, he was at Kaiser Hospital. My dad may have already started a way and means to communicate with me. Time will tell. Below are four paranormal experiences that my dad witnessed.

CATTLE MUTILATION

While living in Lehigh, Oklahoma, my father found a cow in the field. My dad saw one of his cows lying dead in the field. My dad jumped off the tractor to get a better look. He observed that the cow was missing its eyes, ears, udders, anuses, sex organs and tongue. There was no sign of blood on the ground and there were no tracks on the ground. When my dad told me this story, the first thing I thought about was an extraterrestrial harvesting of a cow. There were even a few locals that claimed they saw strange lights in the night sky. My dad came up with a logical solution. The cow was devoured by a pack of coyotes. My dad always had the logical answer. I believe that the cow was harvested by extraterrestrial entities. When I told my dad what I thought about the incident, he had a hearty laugh.

MYSTERIOUS DISEMBODIED FOOTSTEPS

The house that my dad lived in with his brother George, sister Yvonne, mother Sophie Roberts and father Emile Roberts was built on blood money. The sheriff of Lehigh murdered a local for his money and used the money to build the house. The sheriff was eventually caught and was sent to prison for life. At this home, my dad, Yvonne and George would hear disembodied footsteps. Sometimes there would be a tapping on the wall. My uncle George felt a strong breath on the back of his neck. George believed that the house was haunted. My dad's answer to these mysterious events, is that the house was old and possible varmints living inside the walls were causing those strange noises.

USOs AT MONTEREY BAY

When we lived on Ralston Drive in Monterey, there was one night we were driving around Monterey and observed 3 strange lights in the sky that seemed to be zipping around. The 3 lights then mysteriously went into the ocean. I asked my dad...what was that? My dad said it was some kind of military craft coming out of Fort Ord and doing a training exercise. I didn't buy my dad's answer. I felt there was something more to it. In fact, later on in life when I became a paranormal investigator/Ufologist I was called to investigate UAPs going into Monterey Bay from a home in Seaside. People sometimes hear strange humming sounds coming from the bay. I believe that there is an alien base deep in the waters of Monterey Bay. Of course, my dad didn't believe that and blames it on the military.

MOM IN HALLWAY

When my mother passed away, my dad saw her 3 days after her death, walking down the hallway of my dad's house. My dad was cleaning the bathtub and saw my mom. When my dad told me that, I then asked him..."now you believe in the afterlife?" My dad said, he was thinking of my mom so much, that he must have imagined it.

I love my dad, but he was the biggest skeptic, that I have ever known. It was always a blast to debate with him about the paranormal. I believe it was my dad being a skeptic that made me determined to somehow, somehow make my dad a believer. The closest I got is where my dad finally believed that there could be life out there, on other planets. Love ya dad. One day, we will debate again. RIP.

Lost Loot - Cursed Treasures and Blood Money:

Book Review

Author: Jim Willis

Publisher: Visible Ink

Price: $22.95

Reviewed by: Paul Dale Roberts, Halo Paranormal Investigations

Comments: Jim's introduction is an eye-catcher. It appears that Jim Willis became fascinated with treasure hunting when a book fell in his lap called Treasure Island by Robert Louis Stevenson. Jim Willis' 10-year-old imagination went into overdrive. This eventually lead Jim to explore Superstition Mountains. Around every corner of his exploring, he would imagine finding the Lost Dutchman Mine. This passage is amazing, because I can relate to what Jim is saying. At a young age I went to Superstition Mountains with my dad and my imagination was running wild, because I thought I would find some of the hidden treasure. In this book, you will find information on "The Curses of Charles Island". This island is off the coast of Milford, Connecticut. The island is known as Thrice Cursed Island. The island is cursed by an Indian Chief, Captain Kidd the Pirate and some sailors that hid some treasure in 1721 after stealing it from a Mexican ruler. When Captain Kidd was captured and executed by hanging, his last words were: "I have nothing to say except that I have been sworn against by perjured and wicked people." This is when people believe that the curse actually began, after the execution of Captain Kidd. As you move along with this book, you will find information about the notorious pirate Edward Teach, you might know him as "Blackbeard". The murder of Blackbeard was horrendous. The battle between Lt. Robert Maynard and Blackbeard was shocking for everyone that witnessed or participated in the battle. When Blackbeard was defeated, his severed head was placed on Maynard's bowsprit as grisly proof of his death. Blackbeard's head became a trophy for many years. As for Blackbeard's treasure? Blackbeard claims he buried treasure in many diverse places. Had any of that treasure been found? No, but people all over the world still search for Blackbeard's buried treasure. I find stories about pirates captivating because on my mother's side, I am related to Jean Lafitte the pirate and I do have some Lafitte(s) in my family. Then on my father's side, I am related to Bartholomew "Black Bart" Roberts. My dad does have Welsh blood and when I went to Wales, I met some Roberts that also claim they are related to Bartholomew. So, who knows. Jim Willis dazzles us with stories about Jean Lafitte. You will learn that Jean was another pirate that was rumored to have a lot of wealth buried here and there. But where? No one has ever found any of Lafitte's treasures. Another mystery is that Jean Lafitte disappeared off the face of the Earth. Lafitte for a short time was lauded as a hero, in regard to his service during the war. President James Madison pardoned the crimes of Lafitte, only for Lafitte to vanished. Some historians believe he returned to piracy and that his treasure sunk with one of his ships. Another tantalizing mystery that hopefully will be solved one day.

308 pages filled with stories of treasure. Stories about Daniel Boone, Mystery of the San Saba Mine, Montezuma's Revenge, Jesse James and the Knights of the Golden Circle, John Dillinger, Dutch Schultz, Knight's Templar, D.B. Cooper, Oak Island, The Ark of the Covenant, the Holy Grail and much, much more!! The first treasure in your hand, should be this book! This book may give you a clue to where some hidden treasure might be! As a little boy, I dreamed of finding treasure. This book brought back those fond memories!

Haunted Château de Chambord
Paul Dale Roberts, HPI's Esoteric Detective
Sacramento Paranormal Investigations
Halo Paranormal Investigations

While in the Army in 1974, I vacationed in France. For $29.00 I had a round-trip visit on a military bus from Nurnberg, Germany to France. Food and private travel costs came out of my own wallet. While in France, visited Notre Dame, Napoleon Bonaparte's gravesite, the Paris Catacombs, the Eiffel Tower, Versailles Palace and the Arch de Triumph. Another place I visited was the haunted Chateau de Chambord. There were two things, I loved about this castle, the magnificent beauty of the castle and the hints that the castle may be haunted. I could never understand on how some of the soldiers in my barracks would not take up European travel offers by the military. They would not take advantage of those military travel discounts. Soldiers like me called these type of soldiers "barracks rats". They stay in the barracks and do not explore the beauty of Europe. There was one soldier that I met that was as adventurous as I was, his name was Wayne Johnson. Wayne was excited about our trip to France.

A little history about this castle. The castle is over 500 years old. It is known for its famous interior feature, a double-helix spiral staircase that goes up 3 floors. Tourists and locals say that sometimes they hear disembodied footsteps going up the staircase. The castle was commissioned by King Francis I. You will see images of salamanders on the ceiling. The reason being is that King Francis I used the salamander as his emblem. It is said that over 300 images of a salamander can be seen throughout the castle. 13,400 acres of land is part of the castle. So, yes, you would have a lot to explore. Wayne and I, tried to see as much as we could. You would have to spend two weeks at the castle site, to see everything. You're talking about a castle that has 426 rooms, 83 staircases and 282 fireplaces. On the extended property you will find stags, wild boar, wild sheep that was introduced to the castle's acres.

Our tour guide told us that Château de Chambord was the inspiration for the Beast's castle in Disney's "Beauty and the Beast". I asked the tour guide if the Beast of Gevaudan was the inspiration for the "beast"? The tour guide said that the Beast of Gevaudan occurred in another section of France near the Margeride Mountains which is a good distance from this castle. The Beast of Gevaudan was in the south-central part of France, while the Chateau was in the central part of France. The tour guide said it was possible that the Disney people may have incorporated the "beast" from the legends of The Beast of Gevaudan. The tour guide reminded us, that the beast in Beauty of the Beast was benevolent, and the Beast of Gevaudan was malevolent. The Beast of Gevaudan terrorized the citizens from 1764 to 1767 causing 113 deaths, 49 injuries. Some victims were partially eaten, and it has been theorized that the Beast of Gevaudan was a runaway Hyena that was once owned by a noble.

The tour guide explained to us that the castle was built during the Renaissance period. It was suited for the royal residence and used as a hunting lodge and faced more peace than conflict. The castle was used as a hospital during the Franco-Prussian War. During the time it was a hospital, many soldiers died at the castle. There were many reports of tourists seeing glimpses of full body apparitions walking about the castle. The locals believe these were the patients from the Franco-Prussian War. The tour guide said that a local in 1962 encountered a Lou Carcolh on the grounds of the castle. A Lou Carcolh is a large, slimy, snail-like serpent with hairy tentacles and a large shell roaming the forest near the castle. The local had claimed that this cryptid came out of a crevice. This cryptid was only seen once on the grounds of the castle. The tour guide laughed and said he felt the local was a bit tipsy when telling her story. The tour guide did say that at times, he has heard moaning and sometime whispering during his rounds walking around the castle. Wayne and I didn't experience anything paranormal during the castle tour, but that doesn't mean it's not haunted.

The Canadair Sabre Fighter Jet Case
Paul Dale Roberts, HPI's Esoteric Detective
Sacramento Paranormal Investigations
Halo Paranormal Investigations

On September 24, 1972, a horrible incident happened here in Sacramento. An incident in which 22 people died and 28 people were injured. Pilot Richard L. Bingham was flying a Canadair Sabre MK 5 Fighter Jet from Sacramento Executive Airport. Bingham was unable to reach a suitable altitude. The pilot only had 4 hours flying time on this Canadair Sabre Fighter Jet. Not enough time, to master the aircraft. Bingham lost control of this jet, and it skidded across Freeport Blvd and smashed into Farrell's Ice Cream Parlor killing 22 people. The jet was going 150 mph as it smashed into the parlor. Bingham was injured from this crash and survived. When the investigation of this crash was conducted, the conclusion was that it was "pilot error". Farrell's Ice Cream Parlor is no longer located at this site and a memorial was placed, honoring the deceased. The location of this tragedy is at the Freeport Square Shopping Center at 5770 Freeport Blvd.

Paranormal Hotline Call: 10/12/2024. Time: 9:02 a.m. Caller: Ms. C. Ms. C wishes to remain anonymous.

Ms. C says that she is a survivor of this tragedy, she was at the location of this incident in 1972. Ms. C says that before the incident, she had a very strange experience. On 3 different nights, she would hear the sound of an airplane. The sound was loud and on the 3rd night, she stepped outside to see where the noise was coming from. When she opened her front door, the sound of a plane stopped. Ms. C thought that these strange plane sounds might be a warning of some sort and that perhaps she is being warned that a plane will crash into her home. Ms. C felt more comfortable going out and staying out for a while, so she wouldn't be haunted by the strange plane noises at her home. Then it happened. Ms. C was coming out of Farrell's Ice Cream Parlor and the plane crash disaster happened. I asked Ms. C if she thought she was psychic and Ms. C says that she believes she has some kind of psychic abilities.

Ms. C tells me that a couple weeks ago, she went to Freeport Square Shopping Center at 5770 Freeport Blvd, to pay her respects. While she was in deep prayer for the victims, she saw 4 fast moving human shaped shadows moving across the wall. Ms. C feels the shopping center is haunted. I must agree with Ms. C, a tragic event like this may have an everlasting residual effect on the site of this horrific tragedy. The events of September 24, 1972, will replay over and over again. In 1998, when I was taking lessons on flying a helicopter and Cessna airplane at the Sacramento Executive Airport, I would sometimes stop off at Freeport Square Shopping Center. There were times on a hot summer day, I would feel cold spots here and there, which I found unusual. In 1998, I was not a paranormal investigator yet. Even though I was not a paranormal investigator, I knew that the cold spots were a bit unsettling. 10/14/2024: Today, Wish Fire and I, stopped by the Freeport Square Shopping Center. I did several EVP sessions and obtained one possible EVP of heavy breathing (like if someone was running). Wish Fire, Psychic Medium detected spirit activity at the shopping center. Wish Fire felt heavy anxiety and fear as she walked in one area of the Center. My EMF reader went off in certain areas of the location. I did not get any anomalies in my photographs. After my investigation, my conclusion was that there is a very dark imprint in the atmosphere and the residual haunting of the shopping center will most likely continue forever.

FROM WIKIPEDIA:

The aircraft overran the runway, struck an earthen berm, and ripped through a chain link fence. Two external underwing fuel tanks ruptured and ignited upon impact with the fence, creating a massive fireball. The plane continued across Freeport Boulevard, crashing into a moving car, and struck a Farrell's Ice Cream Parlor at around 150 miles per hour. Occupants of the parlor included the Sacramento 49ers junior football team. 22 people on the ground died, including 12 children. An eight-year-old survivor of the accident lost nine family members: both parents, two brothers, a sister, two grandparents and two cousins. A family of four also died in the accident. Two people were killed in the car struck on Freeport Boulevard. Immediately after the crash an elderly couple trying to cross the street to the crash site were struck by a vehicle, killing the wife. Had either the external fuel tanks not ruptured prior to impact or the aircraft not been slowed by hitting the moving car and other vehicles parked in front of the restaurant, the accident could have claimed many more lives. Bingham, the pilot, suffered a broken leg and a broken arm.

Haunted Bahrain

Halo Paranormal Investigations

Nowadays it's dangerous for Nato allies to send their commercial vessels into the Persian Gulf. The dangers of these vessels being seized by Iran or Iraq has increased dramatically. My uncle Jose Causing was a Merchant Marine in the early 60s and as a Merchant Marine traveled along the Indian Ocean. His ship also traveled along the coastlines of Yemen, Oman, United Arab Emirates, Qatar, Bahrain, Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Iraq, Iran. His ship would also travel through the Strait of Hormuz, the Gulf of Oman and into the open waters of the Arabian Sea. Jose mentioned when his vessel came close to Bahrain, he could see the town of Galali from the vessel.

My uncle Jose, and my mother Rosemarie, were both very interested in tales of the supernatural. At an early age, Jose and my mother experienced a very frightening night at a relative's home in Mexico. On that one particular night, they were harassed by a mischievous spirit. The spirit was banging on the bedroom door, moved their beds, shook their beds and when they finally fell asleep, the spirit moved Jose into his sister's bed and moved my mother into Jose's bed. In the morning, they told their father and the relative that lived in this house. The relative explained to them that the house was old, and it was haunted. The relative said the spirit was not harmful, and was known to be playful in a mischievous way. Later on in my mother's life, she discovered she was a psychic medium and had other paranormal experiences. As for Jose, he was just curious. Very curious.

Jose said one of his crew mates named Rouya Al-Kuwari aka Ruby, an American citizen, who has relatives in Bahrain, knows of three haunted locations in Bahrain. Those 3 haunted locations are listed below.

AlFateh Grand Mosque

AlFateh Grand Mosque is one of the largest mosques in the world, encompassing 6,500 square meters and having the capacity to accommodate over 7,000 worshippers at a time. The mosque was built by the late Sheikh Isa ibn Salman Al Khalifa in 1987, and was named after Ahmed Al Fateh, the founder of Bahrain. As of 2006, Al-Fateh became the site of the National Library of Bahrain. Locals have heard disembodied voices in the library and at times have seen books move about by themselves. The mosque is the largest place of worship in Bahrain. When night falls, sometimes disembodied chanting can be heard. The huge dome built on top of the Al-Fateh Mosque is constructed entirely of fiberglass. The dome is currently the world's largest fiberglass dome. There have been reports of shadows moving about inside the mosque.

Bahrain Fort

Bahrain Fort is also known as Qal'at al-Bahrain – Ancient Harbour and Capital of Dilmun. Qal'at al-Bahrain is an artificial mound created by many successive layers of human occupation. Locals in this area have felt phantom tapping on their shoulders, as if someone is trying to get their attention. This area is very haunted, the human presence has been around since 2300 BC to the 16th century AD. Present time, the human presence are archaeologists, tourists and locals visiting the site. About 25% of the site has been excavated, revealing structures of different types. Those types are residential, public, commercial, religious and military. Over the centuries, it has been a trading post. On the top of the mound, there is the impressive Portuguese fort. Tourists and locals have heard disembodied marching. They have also heard phantom command yells late at night. This historic site was once the capital of the Dilmun, one of the most important ancient civilizations of the region. It contains the richest remains inventoried of this civilization, which was discovered via written Sumerian sources.

Bab Al Bahrain

Bab Al Bahrain aka The Gateway of Bahrain is a historical building located in the Customs Square on the central business district of Manama. It defines the main entrance to the Manama Souq. At this location more phantom marching is heard. Some tourists and locals have heard whispering in their ears. The site was opened in 1949. The site was designed by the British adviser to the emir, Charles Belgrave. Interesting fact: Bab Al Bahrain once stood on the Manama coastline. Due to extensive land reclamation in the latter half of the 20th century, the structure is now about 4 miles inland. The square is considered to be the region's first formal public space. As a public place, there seems to be a lot of residual energy, because there have been reports of sounds of people talking and there is no one around. Some tourists and locals have heard disembodied voices arguing. Apparitions have been seen floating above the ground, only to disappear.

Is it Safe to Travel to Bahrain in these Present Times?

Before you go on any ghost hunting trips to Bahrain, check with the travel advisory board. The travel advisory says exercise increased caution in Bahrain due to terrorism. Terrorist groups continue plotting possible attacks in Bahrain. Terrorists may attack with little or no warning. Targets may include tourist sites, transportation hubs, markets, shopping malls, government facilities and the 3 locations mentioned in this article. Bahrain has a lot of history and the locations I discuss in this article are beautiful places. Safety comes first, before any type of ghost hunting in Bahrain.

Sean Combs Mansions are Haunted

Paul Dale Roberts, HPI's Esoteric Detective
Sacramento Paranormal Investigations
Halo Paranormal Investigations

Sean Combs also known as P. Diddy or Puff Daddy had a slew of places that he called home. He had mansions in Beverly Hills, Miami, Toluca Lake. He also had an Alpine Estate. Now you are probably wondering why these locations would be haunted. Simple. Negative sex acts in which there seems to be a lot of, most likely occurred at these places of residence for P. Diddy. P. Diddy talked about locking doors to keep his women confined to his parties. It appears that unwilling minors were also involved. All of this negative energy was implanted into the atmosphere at these homes.

During these sexual escapades, there would be a lot of mental anguish and torment by the participants that may have been forced into various sexual acts. When you have so much negative sexual energy resonating through a home, that energy will remain at that home. Energy is forever and the residual effects of the sexual horrors that certain people faced at these parties will live on forever and replay itself over and over again.

Case Example: I worked a case in Berkeley in which the previous owners were involved in twisted sexual games. The present owners would walk into a bedroom and see two people, sometimes 3 people in uncompromising sexual positions and then would just fade away. This happened to two of my investigators, they opened a bedroom door and saw a man on his knees with a woman behind him, controlling him with a dog leash. Then they just vanished. The ghosts that they saw are referred to as "living ghosts", the ghosts that they saw are people who are still living. This is strong negative residual energy. The horrors that occurred at P. Diddy's places of residence will live on forever. Whoever moves into these mansions will experience extreme ghostly activity. The same thing will be happening at Epstein Island. People who were forced to participate in these activities went through mental torment and anguish. They may be experiencing PTSD from their experiences with P. Diddy's White Parties and Freak Offs. All of that negative energy will be in the atmosphere at P. Diddy's mansions forever.

When the new owners move into these homes, it won't be long that they will be calling a paranormal investigating group to investigate the cause of the paranormal disturbance, and then wanting a cleansing of the home.

Faceless Woman in White: Elk Grove, CA
Paul Dale Roberts, HPI's Esoteric Detective
Sacramento Paranormal Investigations
Halo Paranormal Investigations

I was alerted by one of my paranormal researchers - Sally Howard, that there was some ghostly talk on Next Door Neighbor in regard to the hauntings in Elk Grove, CA. As a paranormal investigator that lives in Elk Grove, there are many. In fact, I worked a demonic case in Elk Grove that was later featured on Ghost Adventures. The episode was called "Emergency in Elk Grove" and I was the location scout for this episode. Below is the thread that I found on Next Door Neighbor. I added my comments.

From: Jorge Rodriguez - Laguna Vista

Hello, neighbors. I'm usually not one for ghost stories, but I had an experience last night on Elk Grove Boulevard near the railroad tracks that I can't shake. I figured I'd share it in case anyone else has seen something similar. Around midnight, I was driving through the old downtown area when I saw a figure by the side of the road. It looked like a woman, dressed in a long, flowing white gown, her hair hanging down over her face. At first, I thought it was just someone walking along the tracks, but as I got closer, I realized something was wrong. The air around me felt heavier, and my skin started to tingle. When I glanced at her face, my heart nearly stopped. There was nothing there. Just a dark, empty void where her features should have been. She looked right at me—or at least it felt like she did—and then, without a single movement, she started gliding toward my car. I drove off fast, glancing in the rearview mirror, and for a second, she was right there in the middle of the road, still looking in my direction. Then, in the blink of an eye, she disappeared. I've heard the stories about a ghostly woman haunting the tracks, waiting for someone who never arrived, but I never believed it... until now. Has anyone else seen her? If you're out by the tracks late at night, be careful. And if you see her, whatever you do—don't stop, and don't look back. Be safe this Halloween.

PAUL'S COMMENTS:

All of Old Downtown Elk Grove is haunted. The Faceless Woman in White has been seen three times that I know about. One of the sightings was reported on Facebook and the other sighting was reported to my group Halo Paranormal Investigations.

Laura Pierce - Laguna Riviera

One thing in Elk Grove. I never could stomach all the dang ghosts. Yes. I have lived in 4 different houses in Elk Grove with a ghost. One had 3, 2 brothers and a little girl about 8 years old. All my stories have been experienced by other people.

Trisha Nava - Laguna West

I've seen her. I saw her when I first moved to Elk Grove in 2019. She was by the tracks by Elk Grove Florin, near the Save Mart.

Martha G. - Pocket

I've heard (but not seen) a ghost ... lady died in penthouse apartment downtown. My neighbors and I all heard footsteps walking upstairs when the penthouse was vacant. Another tenant moved up there, then abruptly moved out soon after. Landlord would not say why. 🙊

Mirella Roque - Laguna Park Village

We lived in a house in Stonelake when it was very new. We had soooo many paranormal things that would happen. The weirdest was finding dead birds laid out at our front door with its heart missing.

PAUL'S COMMENTS:

I have investigated a home on Stonelake. The home had a demonic force within the house. Pictures on the walls were thrown to the ground by an unseen force. The entity would lie in bed with the woman of the house. The woman was touched inappropriately. I investigated the house and captured 3 EVPs. I performed a Roman Catholic house blessing of the home two times. After the 2nd time, the demonic force was gone.

PAUL'S COMMENTS:

Below are some haunted places I investigated in Elk Grove, CA

LAGUNA CREEK WETLANDS

There are clumps of Eucalyptus trees growing in the Laguna Creek Wetlands. The old settlers of the area planted those trees there, the trees were imported from Australia. The trees serve as good windbreakers for their parked caravans. There was an 1850 cholera outbreak in this area and a little girl that died of cholera is sometimes heard whimpering in this area of the trees. A floating mist or the sighting of a blonde little girl lying in the grass dying has been seen by high school students. She is known as THE WIMPERING GIRL. Other paranormal activity at the Laguna Creek Wetlands trails. There have been two sightings of Dogman in the wetlands. A giant salamander has also been seen in the wetlands. It was discovered that 2 students at UC Davis released the giant salamander in the Wetlands.

LEE/WIGHTMAN HISTORICAL SITE

At this site, there was a blacksmith shop; utility/smokehouse built in 1870, tenant house built in 1907; Barn Granary/ Pump House / Harvester Shed built in 1917; Storage Shed. Everything is now destroyed and the only thing standing is the Historical Sign Post that explains the history of the sight. It's located off Big Horn Blvd. Cross Streets: Big Horn Blvd / Anchor Bay. ACTIVITY: There is a blue orb that is constantly seen at this location.

JACK E. HILL PARK:

Jack E. Hill Park. The most popular ghosts at this park are the CHINESE PHANTOM TRIO. To learn more about the hauntings of this park, go to this article at this link here: www.costaricantimes.com/haunted-jack-e-hill-park/43737#google\_vignette

MERWIN F. ROSE PARK:

In 2006, 2 men stole a car in Elk Grove. The police were chasing them, and they ditched the car. The driver was apprehended, while the passenger kept running. It was about 2 a.m. and the suspect jumped over my backyard fence and into a neighboring home across Frye Creek. The police cornered him at this home. The suspect picked up a ceramic plant container and threw it at the police officer. The police officer shot him dead. I woke up hearing the gunshots and had 2 police officers in my backyard with flashlights turned on. The suspect and his friend would hang out at Merwin F. Rose Park. 3 people in my neighborhood, including my wife Deanna Jaxine Stinson has seen the ghost of this suspect at Merwin F. Rose Park during dusk. He is wearing a hoodie.

GHOST IDENTIFIED: THE HOODIE MAN. Also, at this park, an elderly woman ghost is seen walking in the park with her head down. It is believed that this ghost was a woman who was walking in the park and was run over by a vehicle that was going through the park. See story here: www.sacbee.com/news/local/crime/article260125655.html

RAILROAD TRACKS ON BIG HORN BLVD:

The area is the dead end road part of Big Horn Blvd. MAN ON HORSE is sometimes seen trotting along the railroad tracks. Here is one report from Dana Mesler: "Around 8pm in July of 2002, I was walking my dog Brownie, and I saw a cowboy looking guy sitting on top of his horse and trotting along the railroad tracks. I looked down at my dog, then I looked up and he was gone. I had to see a ghost!"

ELK GROVE LIBRARY:

OLD LADY OF THE ELK GROVE LIBRARY is seen sometimes browsing through the books. She wears a gray floppy dress and has straggly gray hair. Don Robinson saw this old lady and approached her and said: "That's a good UFO book!" The old lady looked at Don and frowned and disappeared in front of him. Don didn't mention anything about this sighting for 5 years, afraid people would think he was crazy.

TOWN OF FRANKLIN OFF FRANKLIN BLVD

GUNSLINGER CALVIN COLT haunts the town of Franklin, you also have 4 cemeteries to check out. THE LADY IN THE BLUE GOWN haunts Elk Grove Cosumnes Cemetery, she is seen floating around the cemetery looking for something. At Hilltop Cemetery, the ghostly image of a German Shepherd is seen sniffing the ground and then just disappearing. The story is that a groundskeeper used to bring his dog named Leon to the cemetery while he would cut the grass and trimmed the bushes and Leon loved to roam around the cemetery on his own. When Leon died, he went back to the cemetery that he loved so much. GHOST DOG IDENTIFIED: LEON. Franklin Cemetery has a notable buried there from the Lewis & Clark Expedition.

EAST LAWN ELK GROVE MEMORIAL CEMETERY

East Lawn Elk Grove Memorial, many ghosthunters have captured strange shadow anomalies in their photographs. Three psychics have detected my mother Rosemarie Roberts hanging around. My mother has been sighted at my own home and seen walking down the hallway by my dad in her former home in Greenhaven. My mother was familiar with this cemetery, so it would seem to me that she would hang around to see who is visiting her grave. My mother would claim that she had psychic abilities.

LOVE JUNKY BOUTIQUE

Love Junky Boutique is an old building. PIG TAILS is a little girl that is sometimes seen looking out of one of the windows of this old building and has been seen in the back of the building playing marbles. She is a little girl with brown hair, and she has her hair done in pig tails. Three people at the former Elk Grove Brewery claim that they have seen her, and she will vanish in front of their eyes.

LOLA LOUNGE

Building established in 1885. Used to be a General Store and Restaurant and Bar. It was also known as the Elk Grove Brewery and I conducted an investigation there. An old man that walks with a cane haunts the establishment. There is a little boy ghost in coveralls that will run through the establishment.

SCHOOL OF ROCK

Used to be the building for the Independent Order of Odd Fellows - Elk Grove. 1st meeting for IOOF was on May 2, 1888. The original building burned down on July 7, 1892. ### About The Okavango Delta

The Okavango Delta, is a vast wilderness with many streams. Near the Delta you have the very dry Kalahari Desert. The Delta itself is filled with life. You will find green shrubbery, trees, wetlands, waterways that cover 5,800 square miles of Botswana flatland creating a habitat that has an abundance of animal species. It is also the home of several endangered species. The Delta has seen its share of death. Death for animals that are being poached and death for humans who have died from their hunts or fighting with warring tribes. Skirmishes have taken place, and those skirmishes have an everlasting residual effect on the land. The most haunted area is Shinde Island, located in the Okavango Delta of Botswana - Africa. It's a remote area that has many horror stories in its long history. Paranormal activity has been seen by many locals. From hearing mysterious moaning noises to the appearance of ghostly "water people". What is unusual about the "water people" is that it can be a very hot day, in the 3 digits and if you see a water person ghost, the ghost looks like it is dripping with water. Legend has it that these are victims of various wars that have occurred on this land and that their bodies were left to rot in the Delta. They are restless spirits that were not properly buried.

Horror Story of Shinde Island, Okavango Delta

When the sun goes down, people who live in the Delta will shelter in their homes. At times a cloudy mist will hover over the Delta. Most people do not live in the Delta, but the ones that do, fear the restless spirits that will hunt them if they are out in the open in the Delta. The vengeful spirits will hunt down living humans and drag them into the Delta wetlands to drown them. Inhabitants of the Delta will hear chanting in the beginning and then the apparitions of dead warriors will appear in the Delta and on Shinde Island.

The Horrific Outcome of Delta Explorers

There is a story about the Delta that locals verbally pass on to their children, that warns them of the dangers of the Delta. On one particular night, there were some explorers that were warned about exploring the Delta at night. But despite the fearful warnings, a good size group of brave explorers remained, determined to unravel the secrets of Shinde Island. With their only light source being the stars that dance above, they set out on a dangerous journey, unaware of the terror that awaits them. As they explored the ancient ruins, they begin to hear eerie noises coming from the shadows. They were hearing low guttural moans and hollow clanking, like the rattle of chains. The explorers experienced sheer terror as one of their colleagues was dragged away by a possible Water Person spirit and drowned in the Delta. The explorers heard his terrifying scream and then there was silence.

Legend of the Delta

It is said that the people of the Delta in this type of situation will grow increasingly unnerved by the haunting sounds. They will hit the ground and cower in fear. It is said that an invisible force suddenly will rush towards them and drag one unfortunate soul away. The victim's terrified screams will be heard echoing across the abandoned island as his friends scramble to save him. That unfortunate soul will never be seen again. The few remaining survivors fled the island, never to set foot on it again. But, to this day, the terror of Shinde Island still lingers in the night air.

J'ba FoFi & The Blister Man

While there are many evil spirits in the Delta, it is also rumored that a cryptid known as the J'ba FoFi sometimes are hidden in the trees. The J'ba FoFi is also known as the Congolese Giant Spider and is possibly a new species of Arachnid. The J'ba FoFi sets traps for its prey much the same way as a trap-door spider. The eggs of the creature are a pale yellow or white and peanut shaped. Hatchlings are a bright yellow with a purple stomach. As they get older, they become dark brown. The spider is so frightening because of its size. It has a leg span of nearly five feet and preys on birds and other small game. It is thought to be highly venomous. Some locals have fell victim to this vicious dangerous spider. There is a story that an inhabitant of the Delta was attacked by several J'ba FoFi. He died in the Delta and now his spirit is seen in the wetlands. The spirit has large pus blisters on his face and chest area. English explorers refer this spirit as the "Blister Man".

Special Note: My uncle Manuel "Manny" Ayala visited this area of Africa, when he was on vacation. He did not experience anything supernatural while on this visit of the Delta.
